MANUFACTURERS GROUP RESET AS COUNCIL IN CHAMBER'S DRIVE

In line with the Torrance Chamber of Commerce recently announced plan for expanded activity, the two-year old manufacturers committee has been redesignated as the manufacturers council in order that more area manufacturing firms can participate in the industrial program.

In announcing the decision, G. S. Williamson, chairman of the council, said, that heretofore, the structure of the committee limited the number of manufacturing firm executives who could actively participate in committee activity. The new council will include all manufacturing firms that hold membership in the Chamber of Commerce.

He pointed out that the aims of the council, initially, will be fivefold:

1. To promote and coordinate the common interests of Torrance area manufacturers.
2. To provide a clearing house for exchange of ideas, practices and procedures of value to manufacturing firms.

3. To provide a medium for coordinated effort in solving mutual problems of area manufacturers.

4. To acquaint members with services and equipment available from other Torrance area manufacturers.

5. To provide the opportunity for manufacturers to meet and know each other.

Williamson said it is desirable that participation of each manufacturing company be limited to a single person. He said that, preferably, the individual should be the manager and/or owner or his assistant.

First meeting of the new manufacturers council will be held at the Palms Restaurant, Carson St. at Cabrillo Ave., at noon, Monday, Sept. 9.

Reservations can be made through the Torrance Chamber of Commerce, 2204 Torrance Blvd.

The Art of Living

By RED LOCKWOOD

With History

The old man skirted the fountain, stepped gingerly through the feeding pigeons to sit on the bench in the arbor beside a younger man.

The young man watched him as he sat, then turned his eyes back to rove the ruins of the new church and to see people enter and leave the old one, which still stood.

The day was warm. There was peace.

The young man turned to gaze again at the old man.

"Why," he said, "do you come to San Juan Capistrano, old man? There is no romance in age."

"Ah," said the old one, "but there is in youth. When I come here I am again a youth as I was when first I came."

"And why then did you come?"

"To ponder, I guess, those who two centuries ago walked this way. To wonder why I was born. To wonder if they felt the same as I."

"Now," asked the young man, "that you are old do you know why you were born?"

"No," replied the old, "Unless it was to do the best each day with what I have and constantly to seek to improve what abilities I am fortunate enough to have."

"Is that all for a man to do with life?"

"Perhaps," said the old one. "Life offers everything, but we learn only what we can understand."
